Dutch Sink Jap Cruiser But Lose Important Base

Nipponese In Claim That U. S. Vessel Damaged

BATAVIA, N. E. I., Feb. 7.—(P)—The stout Dutch defenders of Ambonia sank a Japanese cruiser and damaged another and a submarine before relinquishing control of that second most important air and naval base, a Netherlands Indies communique announced today.

A big Japanese transport also was sunk in a separate bombing west of Borneo, the communique said.

These blows, which brought to 59 the total of Japanese warships and ships sunk or damaged by the Dutch in the 63-day war—just four fewer than the goal of one a day—fell short of breaking up the Japanese armada which came a week ago Friday began landing swarms of soldiers.

Ambonia, 1,100 miles northeast of the major Indies naval base of Soerabaja and 600 miles northwest of Darwin, Australia, where the Dutch had stationed light warships and planes to patrol and guard the eastern passage through the Moluccas to Java and to Australia, is now in the hands of the Japanese except for a few bands of defenders which are waging guerrilla warfare here and there, the communique said.

Some of the defense forces were successfully evacuated from the 386-square mile island, leaving the 115,000 population to the mercy of the invader.

Further word was awaited as to whether the two Japanese warships which were hit had also been sunk.

(The Japanese, claiming to have destroyed the Dutch fleet, said they had sunk two of the Netherlands three cruisers, damaged beyond repair a third large Dutch cruiser and the United States cruiser Marblehead and heavily damaged a fourth smaller Dutch cruiser.

Land 11 From Torpedoed Ship

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(P)—The 15,355-ton Swedish vessel Amerikaland, one of the largest freighters in the world, sank less than 200 miles off the entrance to New York harbor Feb. 2, after being thrice torpedoed by two submarines, 11 survivors of the 39-man crew related tonight.

The ore-carrying ship was under charter by the Ore Steamship Company of New York from its Swedish owners.

Representatives of the third naval district quoted survivors as saying the attack occurred at 8:30 p. m. about 170 miles off Sandy Hook, the torpedoes striking the starboard side at 10 to 20-minute intervals.

The navy department said in its afternoon communique that while axis submarine attacks were continuing "their attacks on allied merchant shipment are being combated vigorously with increasing success by our forces."

Chief Steward Gunnar Spant, one of the survivors, told navy men he believed all of the crew were able to get away in the Amerikaland's three lifeboats but that in the confusion of the last torpedo explosion, two of the lifeboats became separated from the third from which he and 10 others were rescued approximately three and a half days later by an allied vessel.

Taber Declines To 'Lay Off' In His Criticism

Is Insistent In His Stand On OCD, Outlays

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(P)—Representative Taber (R-NY) said today he had received several anonymous telephone calls and telegrams cautioning him to "lay off" criticism of the office of civilian defense and its personnel.

The New York Republican joined in the angry denunciation in the house yesterday of appointment of actor Melvin Douglas and dancer Marjorie Chanev to high posts in OCD.

Declaring "threats don't bother me," Taber said he would continue to demand elimination of "parasites" from the OCD and thought the pending $160,590,611 deficiency bill which contains funds for the agency should be returned to committee for elimination of "non-essential" OCD appropriations.

Commend Opposition From the Democratic side, Representative Faddis of Pennsylvania said he would support any move to recommit the appropriation.

He declared he had been "snowed under" by telegrams commending his opposition to the appointments of Douglas and Miss Chanev, both friends of Mrs. Roosevelt.

He said they included messages from air raid wardens who reported that they were buying flashlights and other equipment from their own money.

"Fail to see how children play program or strip tease or art dancing can contribute to safety of civilian population in this emergency," read one message.

"Am a Republican who voted for Roosevelt three times, but no for any skirts as assistant," said another.

Douglas, as head of an arts section, is on the OCD payroll at a rate of $8,000 a year, but is to (Please Turn to Page 10, Col. 8.)

Boy Injured As Vehicles Collide

"Curly" Benton, 1300 East Tenth street, received a head injury Saturday afternoon about 5 o'clock when he was struck by a grocery box thrown from the Milton Grocery truck when it was in collision with a Chevrolet coach at Third street and Washington avenue. He was taken to the Bothwell hospital where medical treatment was rendered.

The truck driven by Gordon Voight, Jr., was headed south on Washington avenue, and the coach driven by Jimmy Dale, of 509 West Second street, was going east on Third street.

Both vehicles were badly smashed.

V. Hansbrough Is Shot By His Brother In Law

'Bud' Watson Is Held In County Jail After Arrest

Saturday afternoon shoppers were thrown into excitement in front of Montgomery-Ward's store when Julius "Bud" Watson of LaMonte, seriously wounded his brother-in-law Virgil Hansbrough, of near LaMonte. The two men are brother-in-laws and it was said by Watson the shooting was over family difficulties.

The shooting which took place about 2:15 occurred just at the north entrance to the Montgomery-Ward store, and the two men fell into the store in a scuffle. Watson used a .38 calibre revolver.

H. C. Morrison, assistant manager of the store, and Lee Cozard of the radio department of the store, with the aid of a couple of bystanders took the gun from Watson. Morrison then took Watson to the office of Dr. John B. Carlisle when he noticed the man was bleeding at the mouth, thinking he might have been shot in the mouth, while others took Hansbrough to the office of Dr. F. B. Long who rendered emergency treatment.

It was said the two men met in front of the store and a few words exchanged after which Hansbrough it is claimed struck Watson in the mouth and the shooting immediately followed.

Bullets Hit Autos

The bullet which struck Hansbrough entered the left side just below the lung and emerged from the back going through his clothing and striking the side of a parked automobile in which a nine-months old baby was asleep in the front seat. Another shot which went wild struck the windshield of a Plymouth car being driven down Ohio avenue by Mrs. Junior Lower. The bullet hit the left lower corner of the windshield and lodged in the right side of the backseat upholstery.

John O'Brien, Jr., who was standing nearby, called the police and when they arrived, Officer Clarence Nicholson walked up the street to find Watson. He found him in the hall just outside of the office of Dr. Carlisle and after an examination was taken to the (Please Turn to Page 10, Col. 6.)

Defense Council Has Meeting

The Pettis County Council of Defense met Friday night at the Chamber of Commerce with the chairman J. H. Bagby, presiding. There were a number of problems brought to the attention of the group by the committee chairman, which were discussed. Registration will still continue and an effort will be made to have a much larger number of volunteers.

Ellsworth Green, secretary of the council, read a letter from Hugh Stephens, state administrator, part of which reads:

"All activities are to be coordinated with and through the offices of the local councils of defense. This does not mean that organizations engaged in defense work will lose their identity or their individuality, but it is necessary that some coordinating factor be in the picture to prevent duplication of effort and confusion between these various agencies. The red cross, boy scouts, farm groups, and many other agencies existing previous to the establishment of the Defense Council are already working with this understanding. Let me repeat, these agencies do not lose their identity nor individuality. They merely coordinate their activities with and through the offices of the defense councils."

Registration For Selective Service Be On Three Days

Every male resident in Pettis county between the military ages of 20 and 44 inclusive will be affected by the third selective service registration to be held February 16, unless they have previously registered or are among the few exceptions made by congress.

J. B. Greer, chairman of the Pettis county selective service board, points out that this registration will complete the inventory of potential military manpower in the county.

This registration, Chairman Greer explained, requires all male persons not previously registered, who attained their twentieth birthday on or before December 31, 1941, and who have not attained their forty-fifth birthday on or before February 16, 1942, must register as of their home address between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. on February 16. In other words, all unregistered men who were born between February 17, 1897, and December 31, 1921 must register.

Not Required To Re-Register

Men between 21 and 36 years of age who registered in 1940 and 1941 are not required to register again, the chairman stated.

For the convenience of registrants, arrangements have been made for the registration of men on Friday, February 13, Saturday, February 14 and Monday, February 16 at the following places and hours:

Court house, second floor lobby, 8:30 to 5:00.

Registration places to be open from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. on Monday, February 16, are as follows: Court house, second floor lobby.

Baptists Will Meet In Sedalia

Expect 2,500 To 3,000 During Three Days' Session

(By Church Reporter)

The three Baptist churches, the First Baptist, East Sedalia Baptist and Calvary Baptist, in Sedalia are making plans to entertain the annual three-day state-wide Baptist Evangelical conference which will meet in Sedalia Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 17, 18 and 19. All sessions will be held in the First Baptist church auditorium at Lamine and Sixth.

Between 2,500 and 3,000 Baptist guests are expected to come to Sedalia during these three days. Most of them will be entertained in homes in the city. The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce and business men are cooperating to the fullest extent with the committees by providing printed material for state wide publicity, in decorating the town for the convention and in helping to provide homes for the entertainment for the visitors.

The first two days will be taken up with discussions and conferences on Bible Evangelism, led by Dr. John Vines, state director of evangelism for Baptists and Dr. Edgar Godbold, the state secretary for Missouri Baptists. Many of the Baptist pastors out in the state will participate.

The program for Thursday, the third day will be combined with a program of the Missouri Baptist Men's Brotherhood, which is (Please turn to page 10 column 3)

Two Decorated By MacArthur

D. S. C. To Couple Of High Officers For Bravery

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(P)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur advised the war department today that he had personally decorated Major General Jonathan M. Wainwright and Brigadier General Albert M. Jones with the distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism in action during the early phases of the Philippine invasion.

Announcing the awards, the department said Gen. Wainwright commanded the northern front on the island of Luzon, and Gen. Jones the southern sector.

High Type Maneuvering

Fighting a Japanese foe greatly superior in numbers, their commands slowly fell back and finally united in Pampanga province before retreating to the present strong position in the Bataan peninsula.

"By particularly skillful maneuvering," they were able to escape a large scale enemy pincers movement, the war department said.

Gen. Wainwright a native of Walla Walla, Wash., and a former cavalry officer, won the distinguished service medal for superior staff work with the 82nd division in France during the first world war. He is a 1906 graduate of the military academy.

Gen. Jones was born in Quincy, Mass., and was commissioned in the army from civil life October 7, 1911. Serving in the Philippines as a colonel when the invasion started, he was promoted on December 18 to Brigadier General on recommendation of Gen. MacArthur because of outstanding leadership in action.

Nazis Resist More Fiercely

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Feb. 7.—(P)—Harassed by Red army raids as far as 75 miles behind their lines, the German armies before Smolensk were offering fierce resistance today at the points where Adolf Hitler hopes to originate his promised spring offensive.

Despite the stiffening Nazi opposition, marked by a thwarted counter-attack in one sector, tonight's Soviet communique said Red forces continued their advance during the day and occupied several new places. It listed 21 German planes destroyed yesterday against seven Soviet losses.

Keenly aware of the German design, the Russians are bent on allowing the Nazis no opportunity of making a stand in advantageously fortified sectors which could, in time, be strengthened.

In the past few days the Germans, especially on the central front, have intensified their efforts to halt their retreat and have even started counter-attacks.

In the same period the Soviet communique has not announced specifically or by name the recapture of any additional cities—a policy which, in the circumstances, is not inconsistent with past procedure.

Russian military spokesmen point out that German loss of Smolensk, for one thing, would be a major military disaster at this point of Hitler's troublous eastern campaign.

Gigantic Air Force Before End Of Year

Plan For The World's Largest For Superiority

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(P)—A two-million man air force—the world's largest—was announced today as the army's eventual objective with half that number to be mustered before the end of the year.

This tremendous program, aimed at giving the United States crushing air superiority over its enemies, was disclosed by Secretary Stimson who, before Pearl Harbor, had set a goal of 400,000 men in the air force by next June 30.

It compares with a reported strength of 1,000,000 to 1,250,000 in the Nazi luftwaffe and of about 1,200,000 in the British RAF.

It is, too more than the army had in all branches at the outbreak of the war.

The war secretary did not break down his over-all 2,000,000 figure into categories of pilots, mechanics etc. It is known, however, that the original goal of a 400,000-man force called for training of 30,000 pilots a year. Presumably, this training program eventually will be quadrupled.

In addition to the army's plans, the navy is preparing an immense air arm. Secretary Knox announced a week ago a program for training 30,000 naval air cadets each year.

Simultaneously with its announcement of the air force program, the War department took steps toward further expansion of the ground forces. An executive order from President Roosevelt authorized it to call to active duty 27 organized infantry divisions which in peacetime exist only on paper.

Department officials said this would mean early mobilization of all qualified reserve officers not now on active duty, and of specialized reserve units, such as hospital units which have been formed in many cities.

The two-million man air force has closely tied in with plans for producing 185,000 warplanes this year and next. It would work out to a ratio of ten or eleven men for each plane. With the need for navigators, bombardiers and ground crews, as well as pilots, such a proportion long has been considered about right.

The men are to come, it was assumed, from volunteers and selectees.

Turn Clocks Up An Hour Tonight

To keep in step with saving daylight and to promote the defense effort, all the average Sedalian, Pettis countian or Missourian has to do on retiring tonight is to turn his clock, or watch, an hour ahead and not forget to change the setting on the alarm clock to arise an hour earlier Monday. From then on the routine will care for itself.

Railroads, airlines, governmental, commercial, industrial, professional and other agencies will fall in line and the "war time" as it has been designated, will be in force and effect until six months after the close of the war.

An enormous saving in electrical energy is expected to result from the change and the longer time off in afternoons will give more hours for gardening, home improvement, or various leisure pastimes for those not actively engaged in warfare. It will also provide more time for civilian defense moves.

Activities Of The Red Cross Are Still Being Expanded

America is in a war which encircles the earth.

America is fighting a world revolution which would destroy us.

The old adage that "Men Must Work and Women Must Weep" no longer holds good, and in the hard months ahead if some American women weep they will be working too.

There is plenty of work to be done. For many of us, the first job is to reappraise our own values. Each, for herself, must resolve the creed, the code of action which will best help her to serve her country.

Be generous. If you can, train for part time service as Nurse's Aide.

The service of trained and disciplined volunteer Nurse's Aides are needed now. They are helping to relieve the acknowledged and most acute shortage of graduate nurses, by taking over from them appropriate and authorized duties in hospitals and clinics, in their own communities. They are

Thirty-Three Lost As U. S. 'Sub' Is Sunk

Undersea Craft Collided With An Escort Vessel

AT SEA OFF PANAMA, Feb. 7.—(P)—The U. S. submarine S-26 sank in these Pacific waters January 24 with all but three of 36 crewmen aboard, following a surface accident. Today at high noon a sister submarine submerged over the spot, gently releasing a wreath from her periscope in solemn tribute to those who died.

Flags of vessels participating in a final ceremonial tribute were at half mast and officers and men stood with bare heads, at attention as both Protestant and Catholic services were read. Among those witnessing the services were the three survivors of the S-26, including Lieut. Commander Earle C. Hawk of Saugerties, N. Y., skipper of the sunken craft, who was on the bridge and was thrown clear by the impact when as escort vessel accidentally struck it and sent it to the bottom.

Since the day of the tragedy, Commander Hawk and his fellow survivors, Lieut. E. N. Ward of Antioch, Calif., and Seaman Joe B. Hurst, of Ada, Okla., have been aboard ships of the rescue fleet which tried valiantly but vainly to reach their comrades. News of the loss was permitted to be sent out today.

Commander Hawk and his fellow survivors, Lieut. E. N. Ward of Antioch, Calif., and Seaman Joe B. Hurst, of Ada, Okla., have been aboard ships of the rescue fleet which tried valiantly but vainly to reach their comrades. News of the loss was permitted to be sent out today.

Only two officers and a seaman who had been standing on the bridge during the submarine's surface operations survived. They were the commanding officer, Lieutenant Commander Earle C. Hawk, of Saugerties, N. Y.; Lieut. Robert E. N. Ward, of Antioch, Calif., and Seaman Joe B. Hurst, of Ada, Okla.

The impact threw them clear of the submarine's superstructure and they were fished out of the dark waters. The navy said it had abandoned all hope for those who went down with the craft and added tersely:

"The next of kin of casualties have been notified."

Names of the men were not disclosed.

Shells Poured Into Outskirts Of Singapore

By C. YATES McDANIEL

SINGAPORE, Feb. 7.—(P)—British batteries on the north shore of Singapore shelled Japanese Sampan's out of the Strait of Johore today and thus broke up perhaps the first feat of the invasion forces which have massed for a week for the onslaught against this fortress island and its defiant "City of the Lion."

Several of the small craft nosing along the Wayhelong straits near the Japanese-held Johore coast were sunk.

Outlying residential districts of Singapore were bombarded for the first time during the day by big Japanese guns moved up to the low hills of southernmost Johore—ten miles from the northern limits of the Lion city at the nearest point.

British artillery thundered back with a pounding that knocked out at least one of the Japanese batteries, a communique reported.

Overhead, the Japanese bombers were back again, but there too the Japanese ran into a spirited defense.

Bombers Cause Damage

The communique acknowledged that the bombers caused some damage, but declared at least one of them was downed by British fighter planes, another probably destroyed, and two more damaged.

Not one of the British fighters was lost, the war bulletin added. The communique gave no details on the shelling of the Sampan's seen in the closely guarded strait.

(They are the type of flat bottom native boats which the Japanese have used before in moving small fighting forces around British land positions in the fight for Malaya, and might have been sent out to test the British defenders or in an attempt to put infiltration parties ashore on Singapore island.)

(The Vichy radio broadcast a dispatch from Tokyo that the British poured thousands of gallons of oil into Johore strait with the idea of setting it afire if the Japanese tried to cross the mile-wide water barrier with landing (Please Turn to Page 10, Col. 6.)

Many Of Fair Buildings Old

"I didn't mean to leave the impression with a Democrat-Capital reporter that the buildings on the Missouri State Fair grounds are excellent," said Ernest W. Baker, secretary-manager of the fair, referring to a story in which he was quoted which appeared in the Democrat and Capital last week.

"The buildings are old, some of them very old and naturally they could not be excellent. They are in as good condition though, as they can be, considering the length of time they have been standing. There are always repairs needed, work must be done on them continuously to keep them in shape, and I wouldn't say they are in excellent condition."

Vital Matters Up To Retail Grocers

All grocers of the city are invited and urged to be present at the regular meeting of the Sedalia Independent Retail Grocers association being held at Hotel Bothwell Monday night at 8 o'clock. Up to the minute information regarding delivery service, tires, food rationing and canned goods will be given out, and this will be an opportunity for food dealers to learn what the government expects of them. Cross Roads Comment by G.H.S.

"War" On The Highways—

Our senses have become dull to figures. During the past few years use of figures to convey the meaning of millions and billions have made their conception meaningless. Whether or not we like arithmetic we still must attempt the use of figures to make us conscious of various conditions. Joe Mobley of the State Highway department was in town the past week. From him we obtained information that in six of our nation's biggest wars since the Revolution, embracing 18 years of conflict, 244,357 men were killed or died of wounds. Since 1924, during 18 years of peace, 567,283 persons were killed by motor vehicles in the United States.

What Will It Be In 1942?—

Interesting will be the statistics on traffic fatalities for 1942 coincident with the lessening of travel on the highways because of tire and other war-time restrictions. There should be a decided decrease in sudden death and destruction. It is up to you, and you, and you.

Mom and Pop Take To Bikes—

Adult automobile drivers who have been preaching safety to their bicycle-riding youngsters, soon will face a novel test of their own consistency. More and more older persons are abandoning use of their cars to become bike-riders. Children are watching to see how parents conform to the pedal-pushing safety rules. The boys and girls will probably disdain putting soft pedals on their horse laughs when mom and pop zig-zag down the street behind wobbly handlebars.

Firm In Her Disagreement—

To my answer last Sunday to Mrs. H. on Civilian Defense, she replies: "I won't concede that you won a point on anything you brought out, except the Martain affair. You knew when you were writing your article that none of those things were caused by lack of civilian defense or public indifference; you are not that dumb. You merely used that argument to try to wake the public up."

I like Mrs. H's reply which is perfectly frank in her disagreement with me. There were three more pages of it, but she asks that I do not publish her remarks, so I shall respect her wishes although I disagree with her on this point, too, for I think her letter appropriate enough.

It is my hope that she will remain a correspondent and write me again on other issues. Letters from people like her keep me from becoming too opinionated.

More On Civic Responsibility—

Comes Mr. W. H., who says:
"Your editorial last Sunday regarding the lack of interest taken by the voters (directors) of a multiple million dollar corporation represented by the city of Sedalia is certainly timely and should be considered by the citizenship. We only get what we deserve and go after and if the attendance at the ward meetings and the conventions is represented by those having an ulterior motive in the selection of certain individuals for the offices to be filled, then we should not complain at the results because some one must run under our present plan of selection. Are you satisfied that the proper party is now filling the various offices to the best advantage to the city and do the voters have enough interest in their community to give two hours a year to seeing that better men might be selected?"

"You live here, have your business here and rear your family here and certainly you have a vital interest in your city affairs, or you should have. It took an awful jolt to waken the people of Kansas City to conditions which had become unbearable and THEY made a demand for a clean up and enforced that demand."

"You, the citizens, have the opportunity to make your own slate at the preliminary meetings and thus do your duty to yourself and your fellow citizen and you would be more than welcome if you would attend them. You will get what you enforce and nothing more, so come to the ward meetings and bring your neighbor with you."

When and Where Was He Born?—

You've got to have a birth certificate to get a job in most defense industries these days. The State of Missouri didn't require birth registrations until the last thirty years. This neglect is causing many citizens considerable trouble now.

Quite a few persons come to the Sedalia Democrat office to look through the files for an item that an enterprising reporter wrote about their birth forty or forty-five years ago. It is surprising how well the newspaper covered the blessed events news in those days. Persons finding the brief birth announcement have a photographer take a picture of the newspaper page showing the news item and the page date, using this as proof of birth backed up with affidavits.

A Kansas attorney writes on behalf of William H. Kimmons who finds it necessary to secure a birth certificate in order to pursue his occupation, so I am asking readers of this column to shed some light on this man's dilemma. Mr. Kimmons' father was William Driskell and his mother's name, Maude Driskell. Sometime between 1904 and 1908 the father was killed in a boiler explosion in the Missouri Pacific shops in Sedalia. A short time after this accident the mother died of pneumonia. Then the Pettis county probate court appointed William H. Morris as guardian of the minor child. On December 9, 1908 a deed of adoption was entered into and this boy was adopted by R. H. Kimmons and his wife T. I. Kimmons, both of Polk county. The foster mother is still alive but knows nothing of the boy's history back beyond the deed of adoption. The boy himself has no way of knowing of a certainty as to the place and date of his birth. Any scrap of information concerning this boy's birth or his parents will be appreciated.

A Use For Vacant Buildings—

Comes another comment on a phase of Sedalia's child recreational problem:

Mrs. W. writes: "My children are grown and have left Sedalia, but I know how we do need some place our young folks can go and spend their evenings. Since they have been deprived of the Y.M.C.A. I know of no decent place for them. They go to a show, then, if they want something to eat there are older men and women, drinking. The dancing places are the same. I have always dreamed of some nice place where boys and girls can go and dance, read good books and magazines, eat a sandwich or drink a coke. Have this place chaperoned by some capable woman. Why can't some of these vacant buildings be fixed up. I am sure any of us mothers would be glad to take evenings about, chaperoning our young people. Sedalia can usually get money for other things, why not start something for our youth."

Education vs. Practical Experience—

There is a vacancy in a key position of a very important Missouri bureau. It pays as much as I make now. I believe I could hold that job and administer the work as efficiently as any who have held the position. The successful applicant must answer minimum requirements of education, etc., pass a written and oral examination. This appears to be the most equitable manner of finding a person to fill the bill. But I do not believe I could qualify under the minimum requirements or pass the examinations. There are a lot of executives in the same fix. A college professor will probably land the job. I hope he does not have any "pink" ideas or is not one of Eleanor's pets.

A New Campaign Slogan—

When the people of this country, or of any community, allow themselves to be lead around like a flock of sheep, domestic trouble is bound to occur. I have a sneaking hunch that in the coming elections millions of Americans are going to do some individualistic voting. The political perfume supply is nearing exhaustion, so the coming campaign slogan may well become the mournful fog-horn phonation we hear on the radio: "Be-e-e, O-o-o-o-o!"

Excursions by Rail to Warsaw—

To save rubber tires, a Sedalian suggests week-end excursion trips this summer over the Warsaw Branch of the Missouri Pacific to the Lake of the Ozarks. Warsaw's Chamber of Commerce ought to get busy on this idea. Sounds like a practical one that can be popularized, but money in the pockets of the railroad and Warsaw and Sedalia citizens.

• Looking Backward

• forty years ago.

S. P. Huff, who recently purchased the livery barn and business of Bud Shepherd at La Monte, has taken charge and added new stock.

Section crews have been kept working all night during the cold weather in the railroad yards, to keep the switches in order. The Katy also has been compelled to keep fires burning over the water pipes in the yards to keep them from freezing.

Among the books which have been donated to the Sedalia public library this week are "Lamb's Essays," "Dickens' Works," "Robinson Crusoe," "Tom Brown's School Days," "Bleak House" and "What Shall We Do With The Philippines?"

A pipe improperly drained froze up Friday night in Dr. Heaton's automobile and burst. An order has been sent in for a new pipe and not until it arrives will the machine be seen again on the streets.

• So They Say

If we in our own sphere of life shall give more sweat it will mean less blood to those of our brethren who are fighting our battles and less tears for those mothers and fathers who have unselfishly given their boys to the service of our beloved land.—Archbishop Spellman, Catholic Diocese of New York.

Fascism can't produce beautiful music. All that Fascism has given the world is bombast, bluster, blood, discord, murder, war and defeat.—Mayor LaGuardia of New York at a rally of Americans of Italian origin.

We need more guts than philosophy.—Dr. Dickinson S. Miller.

RIO DE JANEIRO.—There is a potent lesson for the United States in the experience of the American delegation with Argentine censorship.

The Argentine Government had imposed a strict censorship on all newspapers and radio stations regarding news of what actually took place among the Pan-American foreign ministers trying to break Axis relations at Rio. This censorship required that Argentine newspapers print only facts—no comment, no criticism of Argentine policy.

In fact the general censorship was so forbidding that, in reporting victories of the Russian army, newspapers were forbidden to publish news of a military advance unless the editor was in a position to prove personally the number of miles gained.

Opposed to this censorship were the U. S. delegation, the Brazilian delegation, in fact about 19 Pan-American foreign ministers who wanted the Argentine people to know the real truth about anti-Axis and anti-Argentine sentiment at Rio. Also opposed to the Argentine censorship were a young army of Buenos Aires newsmen and a majority of the Argentine delegation.

All of the above figured that the more the Argentine people knew about the attempt to isolate the Western Hemisphere from the Axis, the tougher it would be for the isolationist semidictatorship of Argentine's President Castillo to resist breaking relations.

In other words, the U. S. State Department and 90 per cent of the other Pan-American foreign ministers were rooting for the basic principles of democracy—believing that if the people knew the truth, the people's reaction would be right. In fact, it was figured that the Argentine people's reactions would be so right and so overwhelming that President Castillo's government could not stand out against them.

Short Wave Bottled

However, very little of what really happened at Rio de Janeiro got by the censors to the Argentine people. Various attempts were made to give Buenos Aires the truth. NBC's competent Buck Canel, speaking in Spanish, broadcast the news by shortwave every night from Rio. But the Argentine Government required his broadcasts to be taken down in disc form and censored before they could be re-broadcast.

And when one of the Merry-Go-Rounders broadcast word that Congressman Taborda, head of the Argentine "Dies Committee," had come to Rio to try to tell the truth to the Argentine public; and how most of the Argentine delegation favored breaking with the Axis, the Argentine Government put up barriers against further shortwave broadcasts.

On the whole, the Argentine censorship was successful. It is doubtful that the majority of the Argentine people got wind of the critical and isolationist position in which their government was placed at Rio. In time, of course, this news will leak through, but it did not leak through soon enough to take effect.

Moral To U. S. A.

The moral of this difficult censorship situation was not missed by various Pan-American delegates—namely, if you are fighting a war to defeat Hitlerism, you lose the democratic principles for which you are fighting if you throttle the press.

Fortunately and wisely, President Roosevelt has been broad-minded when it comes to press criticism, and today censorship in the U. S. A. has not throttled criticism.

Paradoxically, the only attempt to stifle U. S. press criticism came from the same State Department which was trying to encourage Argentine press criticism at Rio de Janeiro. This was when the censorship board last month tried to bar unfavorable comment on Hull's appeasement policy with the Vichy government in France.

When and if the State Department should ever get its way on this, the American public would be in the same position as the people of Argentina, and one of the reasons for beating Hitler would have vanished.

Man-Of-All-Work Welles

Undersecretary of State Welles made a great hit in Rio. From the welcoming ovation which broke through police lines as he stepped off his airplane, to the end of the conference, Welles was a popular hero.

The Brazilians, who have a gorgeous sense of humor even gave him a nickname. It was "Senhor Manoel," which is like calling every Pullman porter "George," and is a name given to the average man-of-all-work around the homes of Rio.

No one ever told the tall and dignified Welles what they were calling him, but carnival songs were even written about him, and those who saw him working night and day for Pan-American defense agreed he was definitely the "Manoel" or man-of-all-work for the Western Hemisphere.

Much as they like Welles, however, there was one thing about him which Brazilians could not understand, namely that he smoked a cigarette while attending the Brazilian Academy of Letters.

The incident illustrates the highly religious character of this, the gayest and most carefree city in the Western Hemisphere. Welles was sitting with the Papal Nuncio and the Argentine Foreign Minister at the Brazilian Academy of Letters. And while waiting his turn to speak, he smoked a cigarette. Brazilians whispered critically; until Brazil's Oswaldo Aranha came to the rescue with this fabrication:

"Welles was not feeling well," he said. "I gave him permission to smoke."

Two Birds, One Stone

Most states are now co-operating in a campaign which should have two-fold and equally desirable results. It is to cut down the speed of autos on the highways.

Connecticut has cut the speed limit from 50 miles an hour to 40, and many others are ordering state and city drivers to "hold 'er down" to 35, 40 and 50 miles. People who burn up their tires at 60 and 70 miles an hour are uselessly destroying the national stock of rubber and the faster a man burns up his tires, the louder he is apt to squawk for new ones.

Slower driving should have a second benefit—fewer accidents. People who never would take care of their own necks for their own sake are now asked to do it for their country's sake. Time lost through accidents, or lost forever through death, is lost to the defense of the country.

Self-sufficiency is always the earmark of a second-rate life. Not in the denial but in the acceptance of mystery do men find greatness and courage.—Rev. Dr. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor, New York Church of St. Nicholas.

Exclusive NEA—Democrat-Capital Photos . . . and an Interview With The Three Dutch Princesses At Home

"What time do the children get up! . . . The Princess Juliana threw up her hands . . ."

By MAJOR THOMAS WAYLING
NEA Service Correspondent
(Copyright, 1942, NEA Services, Inc.)

OTTAWA, Canada.—The Princess Juliana, heir to the throne of Holland and the Dutch possessions beyond the seas, stroked the flaxen hair of her youngest daughter, the Princess Beatrix.

"Canada and the United States have been so good to me and my children . . . I can never forget it . . ."

In a little gray stone house in a suburb of Ottawa, the Princess has established a war-time home for her family.

The succession to the throne of Holland lies with the Princesses Irene, 2, and Beatrix, 4.

From London, the Princess Juliana's mother, Queen Wilhelmina, still rules the Axis-torn Netherlands empire. And here in Ottawa, beneath the Delft blue roof of this unpretentious little house, may be found the succession to the crown of Holland. Like the Royal House of England, the succession lies with two small girls.

Reared Like Canadians

Tiny Princess Irene is two-and-a-half years old, the Princess Beatrix is four. They live like the Canadian children in every respect, mothered and brought up like the Colonel's Baby and Judy O'Grady's.

Princess Beatrix attends Elmwood Preparatory School, where she is rapidly picking up English. At school she is "Trix," and just as Canada has taken the Princess Juliana as a likeable guest, who is to be made welcome and live as she desires, so the children of Elmwood treat little "Trix" just as they do other youngsters.

The Princess Juliana lives simply, bringing up her daughters in the normal healthy life of Young Canada.

On state occasions Canadians Juliana is the royal heir of Holland; at home she is herself, wife and mother, free to live simply and well, to work and play as she sees fit, to bring up her children in the normal healthy life of Young Canada.

On state occasions Canadians cheer the Princess; in everyday life she shops downtown, goes to movies, walks and skis and skates like any young Canadian matron. She wears plain dresses around the house and economizes by darning the odd run in a stocking. (What she eats is her own affair, otherwise every time she visits someone would serve the same thing.)

Lives In Picturesque Area

The little gray house lies at the end of a road in a valley. Tall trees surround it and there is no confining fence. Today it is cold, twelve below zero, so after a brisk walk from school the Princess and her daughters are in the cozy green drawing room—a livable room where small feet scramble over furniture, and dolls and toys are strewn all over the place. On the mantel are Dutch boy and girl dolls, a Dutch sailor and a little Canadian birch bark canoe. In the window ledge is a row of books.

With the little princesses plays Renee, a small chubby youngster of Trix' age, who came with her mother from Holland. Renee is Trix' constant companion. They go to school together, play together, like any two little Canadian or American girls.

There is no royal household as such—no ladies or gentlemen-in-waiting. The little house couldn't hold them if there were. There are a cook and a maid. Two personal friends live with the Princess, one is the mother of Renee, the other takes care of the children. W. van Tets is the Princess' private secretary and takes care of the multitudinous affairs that come up officially and unofficially.

..All Love the Outdoors

"What time do the children get up? I asked the Princess.

The Princess threw up her hands with a little squawk.

It was a squawk; if the Princess wants to squawk, she does.

Evidently Trix and Irene were no different to other small girls. They awoke with the dawn or when they felt like it.

"Trix must be at school at nine,"

The stone house in a suburb of Ottawa where dwell Holland's Crown Princess and her two little girls.

said the Princess, "she just goes in the morning; it's a children's school."

Mention of the gallant fight of the soldiers, sailors and airmen of the Dutch East Indies brought a new light in the Princess' eyes. She was proud of them. "And the natives, too, they are fighting well," she added.

"You know," said the Princess, "this is the first time Holland and the United States have fought side by side, and we know what the outcome will be."

Because of her position representing the royal house of Holland the Princess Juliana ranks in Canada after only the Governor-General and the Princess Alice, who represent the British throne. She is, therefore, a guest at all State and Government functions, and enjoys them all.

Any day in the summer the Princess may be seen in the garden. She likes to play a game of tennis and is a keen swimmer. She loves the outdoors and the two small princesses have inherited this love. She does not go in for bright colors and her formal dresses are usually black.

Scouting In The Sedalia District
The scoutmasters training course started off with a bang Thursday night in spite of the heavy rain, with about twelve scoutmasters present. Ernest Baker, as scoutmaster of the course and Cline Cain as assistant scoutmaster, Ernest Morrow, troop scribe; George Peak, quartermaster; Louis Alley and Yock Satterwhite, patrol leaders.

The training course will give the scoutmasters a chance to play the part of a Scout and to observe how to better operate a troop. The meetings will continue on every Thursday night, at 7:30 p. m. at the Mark Twain school for the next five weeks, then the last meeting will be a hike with instructions in camping, cooking, campfire programs and star study. Men interested in the direct leadership of Scouts are urged to attend the next six meetings.

Troop Activities
Troop No. 67 met Tuesday at Horace Mann school. Election of officers was held, resulting as follows: Senior patrol leader, Edgar Mehl; Junior patrol leader, Stanley Stuart; scribe, Norman Fulton; quartermaster, Edward Mehl; patrol leaders, Jack Lynch and Wayne Rucker; assistant patrol leaders, Dale Winston and Charles Ramseyer.

Troop 67 has recently reorganized. We now have two assistant scoutmasters and several committeemen, all of whom are fathers of the Scouts. The meetings are directed by J. E. Morrow, our scoutmaster. The officers held a short business meeting, to make plans for the next meeting.

Norman Fulton, Scribe.

Troop No. 57 held its meeting at the Evangelical and Reform church. We opened the meeting by repeating the Scout Oath and Law. Tenderfoot and second class requirements were studied, then we played games.

Billy Burrus, Scribe.

Troop No. 71, Smithton, mobilized at 6:45 Wednesday evening and had a weiner roast. We then had a race to the four corners of the town. Games were played, then we collected dues and passed tests and worked on signalling.

U. S. Civilian Defense Is Augmented By 1,500,000 B. P. (Boy Power)

Two Boy Scouts demonstrate a part of their first aid training highly important to civilian defense. One, blindfolded, practices putting a bandage on a "casualty" during a blackout drill.

NEW YORK.—Boy Scout Week, February 6 to 12, will focus the attention of America on its mobilized boy-power — 1,500,000 strong. And the fact that we are at war spotlights once again the Scouts' motto: "Be Prepared."

Because they were trained and prepared, 7772 Boy Scouts, Cubs and their adult leaders in the Hawaiian Islands rendered yeoman service in the wake of the Japanese attack. The boys were in the thick of things, acting as messengers and aides to directing authorities, assisting the Red Cross, putting to practice their skill at first aid to the injured, assisting evacuees out of the bomb-torn area.

Cooperation Pledged
The Boy Scouts of America is not a militaristic organization. As an organization, the members never bear arms. But experience has demonstrated that outdoor Scout training with its cooking, camping, hiking, signaling, map reading, electrical skills, knowledge of woodcraft, and ability to care for one's self in the open has made ex-Scouts vastly better soldiers. And Sea Scouts have amazed naval officers with their trained aptness when they have joined the U. S. Navy.

When the current war crisis broke, Walter W. Head, President of the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America, and Dr. James E. West, Chief Scout Executive, sent a joint message to President Roosevelt pledging the "full and wholehearted cooperation" of the nation's 1,500,000 Boy Scouts, Cubs and their adult leaders.

The President, active in Scouting nearly 20 years himself, accepted the offer with alacrity. Boy Scouts have often been under fire in England. Aerial raiders have not yet reached American shores, but an indication of what Scouts can do in such a contingency has been demonstrated by the British Boy Scouts. More than 60,000 boys over there have been awarded the National Service Badge for sustained work as A. R. P. messengers, first aid orderlies, stretcher bearers, instructors to the Home Guard, assistants in rest centers and other such. A number of them have been decorated by King George.

Scout War Services
More than 180 different kinds of war service jobs have been listed that Boy Scouts can capably do. The Scout has fitted himself for emergencies by preparing to meet them before they arrive. He has learned to fight fire, how to act in an attack is made with poison gas, how to deal with panic. He has attained skill in first aid, in relaying verbal messages, in signaling and in a knowledge of his own district.

Cousin, Believed Dead, Turns Up
Mrs. Effie M. Staats, 403 West Broadway, answered a knock at her door last week, to find a man a stranger to her, standing there asking for Mrs. Effie Staats.

"This is she," replied Mrs. Staats.
"I'd like to talk to you," said the stranger.
Mrs. Staats invited him in. He walked with a cane and a crutch, entered the home and sat down.
"Did you ever hear of a fellow named 'Bud' Deffenderfer?" he asked.
"Yes indeed," said Mrs. Staats, "he's my cousin, but he's been dead many years."
"No he hasn't," said his visitor, "I'm 'Bud' Deffenderfer."
Then the reminiscing began. He was her cousin, 81 years old now living in Olathe, Kas., and she had not seen him for 66 years. Mrs. Staats is 79.

There were many things for the two to talk over, and both enjoyed the visit immensely.
Mr. Deffenderfer is the father of ten living children, four in the state of California, the other six living in or near Olathe.

Automotive Hint
If you are in a hurry and haven't time to clean off road film that dries on your automobile windshield after a shower just take it off with an ordinary whiskbroom, rubbing horizontally and vertically to remove streaks. It will not scratch the glass, and the polish may be put on at your leisure.

Land of the Soviets
Sixteen federated Socialist republics make up the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. They cover an area of 8,819,791 square miles, or one-sixth of the world's inhabitable land area.

Golden Gloves Champs to Kansas City

First Infantry And Missouri Training Have Two Winners

Titles Divided With Six Boxing Teams Entered In Sixth Annual Tournament

The Democrat-Capital's sixth annual Golden Glove tournament bowed out in a flame of glory and with every team entered winning at least one title. Sedalia's share of championships was the slimmest of any previous year, with Tommy Sanders, light weight, being the only winner.

A "flip of a coin" had to be made to decide the trophy winner for the team having the most champions and Major R. T. Carter, Missouri Training School was the winner over Lieutenant O. M. Hutchinson of the First Infantry, Fort Leonard Wood. These two teams had two winners in the championships while Marshall, Wentworth Military Academy, at Lexington, Columbia and Sedalia put only one in the honor division.

McMillian Wins Again
Barney "Aggie" McMillian who has three times won titles here in previous tournaments, came through for Wentworth's victory taking the middleweight title. McMillian laid off of boxing last year, but took up the leather pushing sport again this season to make an appearance of a champion which he is, in the just past session.

Pete Cramer, tall slim red head, from Marshall, won his second title. Cramer was the flyweight champion in 1941 in Sedalia and was able to eke out barely enough points to win the featherweight division this season. Cramer has grown at least eight inches and has put on sixteen pounds since last year.

Sanders Comes Through
Sanders, who has starred in athletics at Smith-Cotton high during his four years as a student there, fought his way to the title like a veteran. It is Sanders first year in boxing but he is expected to do well in Kansas City.

Marion Bielestein, University of Missouri, did not tarry long with Jimmy Woody in their heavyweight fight, and he won for the first time his Golden Glove championship.

Private Harold Bakke, First Infantry, a Golden Glove from Minnesota hopes to repeat in Kansas City. Bakke has been near the title in the Gloves several times, and this year was his first Championship. He is a hard hitting and fighting Swedish Norwegian.

Corporal Sylvester Vasquez, of the First Infantry, won his fight in a closely contested bout from Morris Coleman, University of Missouri. So close was the fight that even the fans were divided on their opinion of the decision.

Roy Nauss, flyweight and Robert Venable, bantamweight, both of the Missouri Training School battled hard to take away two titles for their team. Both boys looked good in the ring and should give a good accounting for themselves.

Results of the Semi-Finals and Finals

Semi-Finals
112 pound class: Robert Miller, Marshall, winner over Joe Murray, Sedalia, knockout in second round. Ray Nauss, Missouri Training School winner over Eugene Anderson, Missouri training School.

135 pound class: Tommy Sanders, Sedalia, winner over Victor Jones, Fort Leonard Wood, First Infantry. Jones' second threw towel in ring near end of first round, due to a bad cut on Jones' nose; A. J. Taylor, Missouri Training School, winner over Leroy Peek, Wentworth Military Academy.

147 pound class, Sylvester Vasquez, Fort Leonard Wood winner over Elmer Bills, Brunswick.

148 pound class, Morris Coleman, Columbia, winner over Norbert Milliken, Fort Leonard Wood, First Infantry.

S.-C. Tigers Defeat Clinton Friday Night

Locals Display Red Hot Scoring Spree In 32-21 Victory

The Smith Cotton Tigers basketball team after taking a heavy beating last Tuesday night from the hands of the Kewpies of Columbia in a conference game played on the S. C. court, turned the tables Friday night when they soundly trounced the Clinton basketball team by a score of 32 to 21.

Russell High Man
Fred Hulce and Carl Russell of the locals were high point men of the evening for the Bengals. Russell was high with four field goals and three free throws, and Hulce followed collecting the same amount of field goals and making one free throw. Sherman of Clinton led his team with high point honors, making fourteen.

At the ending of the first period the Tigers led only by a small margin 4-2. Russell and Lutgen making two field goals, against Sherman's lonely goal.

Leads At Half
The score at the halftime period was 16-3 in favor of Smith-Cotton. In the final half it was the Tigers really cut loose with the fireworks and were never stopped.

The Tigers play two home games this week, one Tuesday night against Warrensburg, and Friday when the Jefferson City Jays will invade the local quintet.

Whit Wyatt Fails To Sign Contract

BROOKLYN, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Whit Wyatt, ace pitcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, conferred for two hours today with President Larry MacPhail and failed to come to an agreement on terms for 1942.

The tall righthander who won 22 games and lost ten in helping the Dodgers to the National league pennant last year, arrived this morning from his Georgia farm as one of the club's stars whom MacPhail had invited here to discuss contract terms.

But MacPhail had to leave town himself this afternoon and their ideas on Wyatt's salary apparently still were far apart.

It was believed that Wyatt was paid about $11,000 last season and that he asked for $20,000 in 1942. Wyatt planned to take a return train for Georgia tonight.

SPORT SCRAPS
THE Golden Gloves sixth annual tournament has come to an end and it probably distributed the championship titles to more different teams than any tournament held in the Kansas City area. There were six teams entered and six teams have a champion, and everyone is a strong and able boxer.

This year the Sedalia team should make as good a showing as it did back in 1940 when two boys reached the finals, while two others managed to advance to the semi-finals, the first time in the history of the Sedalia team that any boy had gone that far.

The outstanding sportsmen of the tournament, without a doubt, was Morris Coleman, University of Missouri, who lost the championship bout to Sylvester Vasquez. Coleman displayed excellent ring ability, but he suffered a severe injury to his left hand on Tuesday night and through the last bout displayed a little weakness in his punch when he endeavored to use it.

The decision was a one-point difference and the audience was divided as to who won the decision, but only that of the judges and referee stands, and hence Coleman had to be the loser.

It had to be a remark made "give it to the soldier" when had the audience had known it, Coleman is now in the service. He enlisted in the Naval Air Corps last week and Saturday went to St. Louis to complete his physical examination. Another Glover being added to the steady growing Honor Roll of Central Missouri's Golden Gloves service men.

TODAY the Central Missouri team leaves at noon for Kansas City where they will stop at the Bellerive Hotel. This afternoon and evening they will go through workouts at the Municipal Auditorium, and tonight if possible will attend the Fort Worth-Kansas City American hockey game.

Monday night the four light classes fight, Tuesday night the four heavier classes will meet and Wednesday night the quarter-finals of both divisions will clash, with the semi-finals and finals on Friday night.

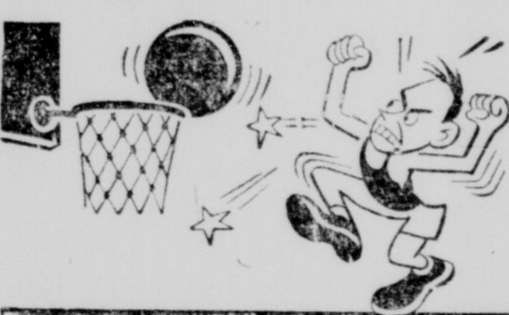

Certainly everyone in Central Missouri wishes these boys success in their venture and I assure you they appreciate it.

Cincinnati Reds Catcher Is Traded

Big Ernie Lombardi To Braves After Long Service

CINCINNATI, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Ernie Lombardi—for 10 years first-string catcher of the Cincinnati Reds—was traded to the Boston Braves tonight for two players upon which the clubs have not yet agreed.

General Manager Warren C. Giles of the Reds announced the deal, explaining: "Bill (McKee) told me that Hensley will be our first-string catcher, so the club won't need Lombardi."

The Reds acquired Rollie Hensley from the Cleveland Indians in early December.

Farms To Get Two
Traveling Secretary Gabe Paul of the Reds quoted Giles as saying that the two Braves acquired in the deal probably would be farmed to Redleg minor league clubs this season.

Lombardi, affectionately nicknamed "Big Schnoz," rated as one of the most popular players ever to wear the red. He came here from Brooklyn in 1932, and in seven of the 10 seasons following bettered the .300 batting mark.

He won the National league batting championship and most valuable player award in 1938, when he hit .342, batted in 95 runs and clubbed 19 home runs.

His hitting dropped off to .264 last season.

Several weeks ago he said he expected and would take a salary cut this season.

John Howard Payne, author of "Home Sweet Home," was rejected in marriage by Mary Hayden, because he had no home to offer her.

Three-Year-Old Is Beaten In Debut
MIAMI, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Heavily-laden Alsab, the 1941 juvenile champion, was roundly beaten in his three-year-old debut today, but the once-incomparable Chalcedon made a great comeback and finished second in a fast tune-up.

Mrs. A. E. Sherman's American Wolf, almost completely overlooked by the crowd of 16,316 attracted by Hialeah Park's greatest card, whipped Alsab and eight others in the seven furlong race.

Track Prospects Are Rosy At Oklahoma

NORMAN, Okla., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Track prospects are rosy at Oklahoma, with three Big Six champs among the six lettermen returning and a potential shot put record breaker heading a strong list of sophomores.

Coach John Jacobs sums it up: Lettermen back: Bill Lyda, conference indoor 880 champ and record-holder with 1:56.3; Dick Smethers, conference two-mile indoor champ and record holder with 9:36.9; Orv Mathews, conference outdoor 100-yard dash champ; Donald Benson, 440; Ray Mullins, high jumper and Archie Walker, low hurdles.

Both Rangers and Americans are high scoring units, the Fort Worth six having tallied 123 times to lead the league in this department. The Americans are second with 122 scores.

After tomorrow's game the local club will make its final swing around the northern sector with games at Minneapolis and St. Paul and return here a week from Sunday to face the Dallas Texans.

M. U. Tigers Lose Cage Game 60-36

Gerald Tucker Of Oklahoma Returns To Lineup

NORMAN, Okla., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Gerald Tucker returned to Oklahoma's potent basketball machine tonight to participate in a 60 to 36 rout of the outclassed Missouri Tigers in a Big Six conference game.

Playing in his first game since January 5, Tucker counted six field goals and a like number of penalty shots for 18 points and individual scoring honors. He also hawked rebounds off both backboards and commanded the Sooner floor game.

Two Sprees
Two scoring sprees by Oklahoma, one in each half, helped push the Tigers out of a challenging position. Oklahoma threw in 10 scores in a three-minute spree in the opening half and came back after intermission to count 17 in six minutes.

Missouri banked its offense on long shots from mid-court, being unable to threaten the Oklahoma defense. George Evans and Earl Stark, tossing in four field goals each from distant angles, paced the Tiger scoring efforts.

Losing Roy Storm and co-Captain Herbie Gregg midway in the second half on fouls, injured the cause of George Edwards' Tigers, who tried a man-for-man defense in the first half and a zone in the second, both to no avail.

Eight In Two Minutes
The Missouri offense resigned itself to one fine rally late in the game that rolled up eight points in two minutes. Gregg and Donald Harvey hit the target from the side, Stark scored a set-up and Gregg and Harvey counted free throws.

Before this spurge Oklahoma had held a 49 to 20 advantage, and had led at one stage of the first half, 29 to 10. The Sooners worked many plays off the post where Tucker was stationed, with "Ug" Roberts driving in for six goals and Sophomores Richard Reich and Bob McCurdy hitting an aggregate of seven from the field.

Oklahoma hit 21 of 63 tries and Missouri made 15 of 79. The Sooners missed only three free throws out of 21 and the Tigers scored six out of 13.

M. U. Tracksters Set New Records

COLUMBIA, Mo., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Missouri university trackmen established four new meet records today in trimming the frosh team 67½ to 36½.

Elmer Ausieker pushed the shot to 49 feet 3 inches for a new Missouri record. This exceeded the former mark by 2 feet ½ inch.

Other meet records: Billy Rothwell, pole vault, 12 feet 8 inches compared with old record of 12 feet 6½ inches; Ray Rayl, 880 dash, 2:00.1; old record 2:00.15; mile relay, varsity team in 3:26.2 against former meet record of 3:38.

Don Walters, sprinter, tied meet record of 6.3 in the 60-yard dash, while Don O'Hara equalled the 60-yard low hurdle mark of 7.2. Freshman Maurice Alexander equalled the meet record for high hurdles.

Mississippi's population increased from 2,009,821 in 1930 to 2,181,763 in 1940 according to census figures.

St. Patrick's church was the scene of a pretty wedding at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning, when Miss Mary Catherine Sullivan, daughter of Mrs. John L. Sullivan, 418 East Seventh street, became the bride of Mr. Robert Ellis Allen, of Perry, son of Mrs. Harry F. Allen, of Powersville. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father John A. Biter, pastor of the church, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends.

There were bouquets of flowers, pink gladioli, buddleia Asia Attica, and candles on the altar with tall baskets of the same flowers on either side of the aisle in which the couple stood as the ceremony was performed.

Preceding the ceremony Mrs. Jesse Comer played Andantino in D flat, and "Golden Dream," a composition of her own. She accompanied Mrs. A. L. Miles, who sang Millard's "Ave Marie" and "Mother Beloved."

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, John L. Sullivan, Jr., of Concordia, Kas., was preceded to the altar by her sister, Miss Dorothy Sullivan, and they were joined there by the bridegroom and his attendant, Lieut. James Haruntun, of Joplin, now stationed at Fort Leonard Wood.

Miss Sullivan, now Mrs. Allen, chose for her wedding costume, a dusty rose tailored suit, with navy blue accessories. Her flowers were gardenias. Miss Dorothy wore a frock fashioned with a powder blue bodice and navy blue skirt. Her flowers were pink camellias.

A small reception followed the ceremony, at the Sullivan home, where a color scheme of pink and white was carried out. The lovely wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and surrounded by a wreath of sweetpeas, stood at one end of the dining table, and the coffee urn at the other, and a bouquet of flowers in the center, with lighted candles on either side.

Bombard Forts Near Manila

Three Japanese Planes In Attack Are Brought Down

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A three-hour bombardment of American forts at the mouth of Manila Bay, intensified artillery fire on Bataan peninsula and new air duels indicated today that the Japanese were opening a new offensive in an effort to crush resistance in the Philippines.

A war department communique, telling of these developments, also disclosed that near Bali, in the Netherlands East Indies, a formation of eight American P-40 pursuit planes was attacked by a "greatly superior force of Japanese fighters." The result was that "at least three enemy planes were shot down," while one United States plane was destroyed and another is missing.

The bombardment of Forts Drum, Mills and Hughes in Manila Bay disclosed that the shells the forts poured on enemy gun positions on Friday had not destroyed all Japanese batteries concealed on the southeastern side of the bay. Today's communique said the Japanese bombardment was by heavy artillery, that no material damage was done and that "four guns returned the fire with undetermined results."

Most of the Japanese shells were directed at Fort Drum, a concrete fortification atop an islet, but some were thrown at Fort Mills, the Corregidor Island position, and at Fort Hughes, nor far away.

The range for the duel presumably varied from five to ten miles. On Bataan peninsula, there was little infantry action in the 24 hours preceding the 8:30 a. m. C. S. T. issuance of the report.

But, said the report, "enemy artillery fire was heavy" and "hostile dive bombers were active" over the lines of General Douglas MacArthur's Filipino-American army. Two American fighter planes went after four Japanese planes and downed two without damage to the American craft.

Bombs On Rangoon RANGOON, BURMA, SUNDAY, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Japanese bombers swept over Rangoon early today and subjected this great Burma road terminus to its heaviest night raid of the war.

For three hours the Japanese attacked in waves, concentrating again on the airdrome just north of Rangoon.

The city area also was bombed. The raid followed a relatively quiet day during which RAF Hurricane fighters attacked a formation of 24 scouting fighters, routing the formation and sending three of them flaming to the earth. The RAF escaped without injury.

The Japanese attack this morning was the fourth successive night raid. They evidently were trying desperately to knock out allied air power in Burma before attempting to advance in force across the broad Salween river, some 100 miles to the east.

attack on Soerabaja, also were declared ineffective, scoring hits only on the cookhouse at the naval base, now doubly important in the united nations' defense scheme since Singapore's usefulness has been cancelled by siege.

As viewed from Batavia, the beginning of the third month of the war found the Japanese executing six "major penetrations" through the South Seas, all of which threatened the encirclement and capture of Java.

These drives had progressed as follows:

1. From Indo-China, the Japanese had pushed westward through Thailand to the Salween river in Burma.

2. The drive southward through Malaya to Johore Strait, last hurdle to Singapore.

3. The operations from the South China sea which resulted in seizure of the northern and western Perimeter of Borneo, which itself is only about 300 miles across the Java sea from Java.

4. The drive through Macassar Straits which resulted in capture of the northern and eastern Perimeter of Borneo, as far south as Balikpapan.

5. The drive through the Moluccas in which the northern Celebes first was seized, then Kendari in the southern Celebes and finally Ambon.

6. The long-range attacks on New Guinea and the Solomon Islands where the Japanese menace Australia and the communications line to the west coast of the United States.

Thirtythree Are Lost As A U. S. 'Sub' Is Sunk badly battered in the surface mishap, went down immediately.

The normal complement of a submarine the type of the S-26, a World war type vessel which was started in 1918 and commissioned in 1923, was 35 men and four officers.

Three men were reported in Panama to have remained ashore for medical treatment, a report the navy did not confirm here.

The navy disclosed that time and circumstance had worked against efforts to rescue the trapped men through use of the comparatively recent diving bell device.

It required five days to make contact with the vessel which was submerged in 301 feet of water. There was no indication of life aboard, the navy said.

Even if the submarine had been located in time to attempt to save any lives, the announcement continued, it would have been impossible to use the diving bell to remove any survivors.

A message, enclosed in a buoy and sent to the surface by signal gun, advised the rescuers that both ends of the submarine—the only places fitted for rescue work with the diving bell—had been flooded and that the crew members were huddled in the central operating compartment. The design of the conning tower structure on the S-26 precluded use of the diving bell.

Woman Found Dead In Home

Mrs. Lottie M. Coffin, 510 East Third street, was found dead at her home about 3 o'clock Friday afternoon by Duke McFarland, a neighbor boy who lives next door. Mrs. Coffin when found had been dead about two hours, according to Dr. W. T. Bishop, coroner, who examined the body.

The boy, who visited in the Coffin home several times each day, ran into the house to see Mrs. Coffin and found her lying on the dining room floor. She had been ironing, and it appeared as if she had sat down in a chair to drink some coffee and toppled over.

Dr. J. W. Boger and Dr. Bishop were called. The coroner said it was evident she passed away from a heart ailment.

Surviving is a daughter, Mrs. Eileen Weisner of Chicago, and a son, Walker Coffin, in the United States Army at Fort Jackson, S. C. Two brothers and a half sister also survive.

The body is at the Gillespie Funeral Home.

MacArthur Fills Filipinos With His Own Fiery Spirit

These young Filipino soldiers are pictured during the training that was all too short before war's blow fell. "Write your history in red on the breasts of your enemy," Gen. MacArthur told them. Today, they are doing it.

Although deprived of much of the training Gen. MacArthur had planned for them, his Filipino troops battle the Japanese invaders with thrilling tenacity, courage and boldness. Gen. MacArthur is not surprised. He always said they would be there in the pinch. His frantic race against time and official indifference in the Philippines is described in the article below, last of three detailing the spectacular career which has made MacArthur one of the most colorful, as well as the "fightingest" soldiers in American history.

By TOM WOLF
NEA Service Staff Correspondent
One night in the late 'Thirties, a tired guest on the fourth floor of the fashionable Manila Hotel stirred restlessly in his bed. The unceasing sound of footsteps in the penthouse apartment directly above was keeping him awake. He snapped on the light, looked at his watch. Two a. m.

He picked up the house phone, indignantly asked the clerk: "Doesn't that guy upstairs know what time it is?"

"That guy upstairs"—Douglas MacArthur, Field Marshal of the Philippine Army—knew only too well what time it was. He knew not only the hour of day, but the hour of history. Time, precious time in which to make the Philippine Islands secure, was fleeting.

So he was working, striding up and down, as was his habit, through the long expanses of his living room, lined with books and autographed photographs of former army buddies.

As he worked he occasionally looked out his window at the lights blinking in the harbor below. Manila Bay. There was a name to conjure with in American history. Manila Bay—start of the chain of events that was to give these islands the independence that he was now working to enable them to defend.

Believed In Philippines
It was he who believed most stubbornly that they could be defended. His old and good friend, Philippine President Quezon had put the question to him bluntly: "Are the islands defendable?"

That's a relative question, MacArthur had said. Nothing is defensible against any possible combination of forces. But, he said, the Philippines can be made so strong that the cost of conquest would exceed any economic justification for trying to conquer them.

MacArthur's belief in the Philippines' defensibility was bolstered by his determination to defend them. This sprang in part from his Philippine background and his love of the Filipinos. More than that, he saw their importance to the U. S. "While not the door to the Pacific, or even the lock of the door to the Pacific, they are truly the key which turns the lock which opens the door to the Pacific," he had said. He wanted that key kept away from America's enemies.

When MacArthur went to the island as military advisor to the Philippine Army in 1936, defense forces there numbered about 10,000—Philippine Scouts and Constabulary. His was a 10-year plan to make the islands strong enough to preserve their independence by the time they won it—1946.

He would raise a conscript army of 40,000 a year, bringing a 10-year total of 400,000. These men, trained at the model West Point he established on the islands, equipped with planes and given sea protection with a fleet of motor torpedo boats, would do the trick, he thought. He worked ceaselessly to build this defense.

Despite the hard work, life in Manila was pleasant for MacArthur. In 1937 he had married for the second time. His wife was the former Jean Marie Faircloth, of Murfreesboro, Tenn. The MacArthurs had one son, now four years old, named Arthur after the General's father.

In Murfreesboro, they think of General and Mrs. MacArthur. "She is safe," Secretary Hull assures worried friends and relatives.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Jean Marie Faircloth's husband.

They call him "the General," because that's the way Jean Marie refers to her husband when writing of him to friends. These friends were long worried over the whereabouts of Mrs. MacArthur. When the war broke out, she was living in Manila, now occupied by the Japanese.

But recently her aunt, Mrs. Marie Beard Glenn, of Louisville, Ky., said that Secretary of State Hull had notified her that Mrs. MacArthur and the boy were safe in the Philippines. Exact location of their haven was not revealed.

Mrs. MacArthur's brother, Cameron Fairchild, Nashville, Tenn., bread company executive, and for that matter the people of Murfreesboro, have never seen General MacArthur. Even Jean Marie has not visited home since she married in 1937 and went to live in the Philippines.

Together the three MacArthurs lived comfortably in their large, air-cooled penthouse. They entertained infrequently. The general's favorite form of relaxation was the movies. Every weekday night found him in one of Manila's six theatres, often sleeping through the show, but resting.

As the years passed, MacArthur's job became harder rather than easier. A lukewarm Philippine congress constantly pared down the $8,000,000 appropriation MacArthur had been promised yearly. In 1940 it was little over $1,000,000.

But this and other handicaps only spurred him on. He had faith in the Filipinos. He set out to instill them by word and action—as only MacArthur can—with the highest military traditions. "Write your history in red on the breasts of your enemy," he told them. "Only those are fit to live who are not afraid to die for their country."

MacArthur's ardor with his native troops amused some of the more supercilious officers of the United States Army. They laughed at his title of Field Marshal. "MacArthur doesn't rate in the American Army now any more than a buck private," they said.

Suddenly MacArthur ceased to be a "buck private" to them, ceased to be amusing. When the Japs moved into Thailand and crisis mounted in the Pacific, President Roosevelt recalled MacArthur, as Lieut. General, to head the United States Army forces in the Far East.

Now MacArthur's previous work seemed like a vacation. His pace wore out men many years his junior. His aide de camp went to the hospital with nervous exhaustion. MacArthur raced against time. But the time was all too short. It was early on the morning of Monday (in Manila) Dec. 8, when his aide routed him out of bed with the news of war.

The physical moves that have followed already are history—American history in the highest traditions. MacArthur's brilliant stand has been made in face of overwhelming odds. They were not only Jap odds—though these were probably greater than even he had expected.

Beginning Valiant Stand
The ten years to build Philippine defense were only half gone. The Jap blow at Pearl Harbor deprived MacArthur of protection he had every reason to count on. In the face of these facts and 10-1 superiority by an enemy with control of sea and air, MacArthur has brilliantly conserved his forces, retired to positions long prepared. Still he has taken his beloved offensive.

At war for the second time in his life, Douglas MacArthur is re-proving the character of his military genius. Aiding him are the stout-hearted officers and men of the U. S. and Philippine armies. MacArthur's faith in his Filipino troops has been justified.

At war's start MacArthur was everywhere at once. Busy though he was, he took time out to be seen in Manila in order to keep civilian morale high. One action alone engraved his name on islanders' hearts. An officer suggested that the American flag on staff headquarters might serve as a target to Jap bombers, asked about removing it.

MacArthur, as usual, found words appropriate to the occasion: "Take every other normal precaution for the protection of the headquarters," he ordered, "but let's keep the flag flying."

Shortly before Christmas, 1941, Douglas MacArthur was made a full general for the second time in his life. Full general or not, on December 24, he made a characteristic move. Ever a brilliant soldier and gallant man, he took to the field to lead his men. He knows better than most the significance of time in modern war; knows that every second he holds out means another second ticking towards the setting of the Rising Sun.

MacArthur's future plans are no secret. He has announced them to the world—simply, dramatically, MacArthur-ly:

"The United States has directed me to defend these islands, and I propose to do so."

Canadian Whaling Plants

Canada has only two whaling plants, both in the province of British Columbia. They took 219 whales in the four-month season of 1940, compared to 310 in 1938.

A baby barn owl, weighed just before and after it swallowed a gopher at a single gulp, increased its weight 13 per cent.

Sun's Effects

The sun's energy output varies, but when the sun gets hotter, the earth gets cooler, since the increased solar temperature stimulates evaporation and winds here on earth.

Vermont, the first state to join the original 13 colonies, was admitted to the Union March 4, 1791.

War Cause?

The cotton gin, which turned unprofitable slave labor into a golden asset, has been blamed by some persons for bringing on the Civil War.

IN THE CABIN CHAPTER XXVII

WHILE I was waiting on them, Juddy slipped across to the plane and pinched the revolver. She wasn't for letting Angel shoot some poor slob that might be perfectly innocent. They put off without noticing their loss.

They hadn't been gone half an hour when Doc showed up at the Feederia. He was in his working clothes, and he looked white and grave.

"Old Swoby is back," Doc said. "I've got him in the shelter."

"Then everything's jake," I said.

"No. He's been shot."

"Shot?" Juddy forgot her feud with Doc. "What—why—"

"It isn't serious. Flesh wound. I've dressed his arm."

"What have they got on him?"

"He was found hiding in a barn near the place."

"Hiding from the airplanes?"

"Of course. But could you get a mob to believe that? There's something else. The woman, before she died, muttered something about a man with a red head. Swoby had that infernal red cap of his on. When they found him, he ran."

"What'll we do, Doc?"

"I've telephoned the State Police."

"Did you get 'em?"

"No, they're all out on the hunt. I left word."

I hustled across to the Feederia and brought back my good old forty-five.

"Look," I said. "Give this to Old Swoby and head him for the Big Swamp. They won't find him there. Not tonight. Lord! What's that?" But I'd heard that lost-soul wailing before.

"Bloodhounds," he said. "The swamp is hopeless." He turned to Juddy. "Is there a bar to the door of the log shed in your back yard?"

"Yes."

"My God, Doc!" I said. "Are you crazy? You can't stand 'em off there."

"Have you got any better plan?"

"No. But—"

"You don't expect me to give Swoby up, surely?"

"I'd rather have him killed than you."

"We're wasting time," he said. Juddy spoke up, kind of desperate. "Yes, we're wasting time. Don't you see you can't do anything with him?"

She didn't look at Doc. I think she was afraid to.

"Come, Swoby," he called.

Swoby came out. He stared from one to the other of us and then said something that made me almost cry. "Why must they kill me?" he said. "This is not my country."

"You must do what Mr. Oliver tells you," Juddy said to him.

Something shoved against my leg. It was Dolf.

"Okay, boy," I said. "Trail along. You like trouble."

WE all went across the road to make ready. Doc sized up the log cabin and the lay of the land around it. He had his pistol. I had my old forty-five wanger. Juddy's twelve-gauge stood in the hall corner. I sneaked it and a box of shells and gave the lot to Old Swoby who'd been in the war and knew a gun when he saw it. Juddy had hung on to the gat she swiped from Hendy's plane.

"They might try to burn us out," Doc said. "We'd better roll that rain barrel in. We'll need buckets." That got thought of everything.

While Juddy and I were getting out the buckets for water the sound of the dogs got nearer and more mournful. They were baying at the ford where Old Swoby waded the stream. That didn't give us too much time. Doc spoke up, quiet and business like.

"This is the plan. When they come, I shall try to get a hearing. I don't want to hurt anyone. But I do want them to believe that we're prepared to shoot if necessary. Now you two go back to the mansion and keep after the troopers."

"And leave you here?" Juddy said.

"This is no time to argue," he said. "Go back."

Juddy didn't argue. She just walked into the shack. I trailed Dolf followed me.

"For God's sake, Juddy!"

Her voice shook, too, when she spoke. "I'm not afraid. At least, not very."

"Mom," he said. "Mom! Get her out!"

"Don't start anything Doc," I warned him. "I was base of a living pyramid once. You can't shove me around. And I won't let you shove Juddy. We're staying."

"They come now," Old Swoby said.

The hounds were yelling for blood; the mob, too. The front line of the chase straggled into the yard. Doc pushed the big door shut and slipped the bar. Old Swoby took his place at the rear window with Juddy's gun. It all looked to me like bad trouble.

Doc stood by the small front window next the door.

"Everybody quiet, please," he said. "I'll do the talking."

HE stuck his pistol through the window and fired a shot in the air. A car swung into the grounds. By its lights I could see the advance guard taking cover in the thickets. Bixie Groff and a bunch of his townies were behind one clump.

"Don't come any further," Doc said. "You'd have thought he was in his classroom. Quiet authority; that was his pitch. Some bird behind a live oak called out,

"Give the fella up, Prof. We got nothing against you."

"Anybody interferes, they're right liable to get hurt!"

Groff, with a couple of his pals, was edging over to the left. A bullet plunked into the log above my head. Some more followed. They were firing high. The car lights were switched off now, but there was enough moon so we could see a man moving forward alone.

"Stop that shooting," he said. "Maurie Sears," Juddy said. "Quiet!" Doc snapped at her. "Oliver!" Sears called. "Can I have a word with you?"

"Certainly."

He walked up to the door. Through my chink between the logs, I could see his face, stern and set.

"You might as well give him up Oliver."

"So that you and your friends can lynch him?"

"I'll never have a hand in another lynching. Not at Tambay." (Well, I knew why that was.)

Doc said: "Will you guarantee to deliver him safely to jail?"

"I can't guarantee anything. But I'll do my best."

"I believe that, Sears. But I don't believe it would be good enough."

"There isn't much time," Maurice Sears said. "As your friend, Oliver, I beg you to turn the man over to me."

Doc seemed to be thinking about it, for he didn't say anything for a few seconds. Then,

"That's your best advice?"

"It is."

"Would you do it in my place?"

"The case is differ—"

"Would you do it in my place, Sears?"

"No."

"I thought not. But you expect me to?"

"No."

"Thank you, Sears. Neither will I."

Petaim, 85, Served France for 66 Years

FEW men in the world today have served their country with the devotion and loyalty for as long a period as Marshal Henri Philippe Petaim, chief of state of France.

The stamp above, issued by Algeria in 1941, bears a portrait of Petaim, who will become 86 years old in April, 1942. Sixty-six of those years have been spent in the service of France, either in the army or in administrative posts.

Petaim was born April 24, 1856, the son of a wealthy farm family in the lowlands of Flanders. He attended public schools and St. Cyr, the French West Point, from which he was graduated in 1878 as a second lieutenant.

He is credited with stopping the Germans at Verdun and is known to all Frenchmen as the "hero of Verdun." When he took over supreme command of the French forces in 1917 he quieted a revolt that had been brewing in the ranks and threatened disorganization of the French army.

Petaim saved the day. And since then he has saved the day for his country many times. He was called from retirement in 1940 to head his now-subservient nation.
